THREE MILLION JEWS HOMELESS IN POLAND

Bodies of Children. Dying During Pilgrimage from Country. Thrown by Wayside, Says Russian Author.

Sufferings of Jews in Russian Poland and other countries were graphically told by Sholem Asch, a Jewish author of Russia and New York, at a meeting in behalf of Jewish war sufferers at Adas Israel Temple, Sixth and I streets northwest, last night.

Mr. Asch said that 3,000,000 Jewish fugitives in Russia are without shelter. During the summer, he said, the sufferers, particularly in Poland, slept in tents. This will not be possible, he said, during the terrible Russian winter.

Stories of cruelty to Polish Jews were told by Mr. Asch. Belgian sufferers, he said, at least have a nation which they can call home. The Jewish exiles from Poland, he said, have no homes and no country. He told of the forcing of Jews in Poland from their homes—particularly in the Kovno district—at the time of the German invasion. Russian officers forced the citizens to leave their homes, he said, in front of the German armies.

Many children died during the pilgrimage from the beleaguered cities of Poland, Mr. Asch said, and their mothers were forced by soldiers to throw their bodies from windows of coaches. Of aged men and women taken from charitable institutions and hospitals, he said, one-third died and another third were driven insane.

BOARD OF TRADE HOLDS ANNUAL MEET TONIGHT

Ten New Directors Will Be Named and Glee Club Give Concert at Willard Hotel.

The Washington Board of Trade will hold its annual meeting in the Willard hotel tonight, at which annual reports of officers and committee reports will be read and ten directors elected.

An innovation for the board's fiscal meeting will be the appearance of the organization's glee club, organized a few weeks ago by Charles R. Bartlett. The chorus has been training in the board's offices, where a piano had been installed for them.

Ten vacancies in the board of directors are to be filled. The directors, thirty in number, will meet within the week following the annual meeting to appoint officers of the organization. Candidates for directors are J. Harry Cunningham, Theodore W. Noyes, Frank P. Reardon, Odell S. Smith, Samuel J. Prescott, John Poole, Edward H. Droop, Lewis Holmes, James P. Oyster, George E. Hebbard, John Joy Edson, William H. Saunders and Louis A. Dent.

MAORI CHIEF NOW.

But He Used to Be an Expert of Racketeering.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—From a racketeering player to white chief of a Maori tribe at Hawke Bay and the husband of Princess Karariri, the daughter of a famous Maori chieftain, is the fortune of Peter La Morte, who arrived here on the Matson steamer Matahoni en route to the Royal Naval Academy in London. Several years ago La Morte went to London from New York to introduce racketeering in the London music halls. The Princess Karariri was at the time studying in a London school. She visited La Morte at his home in London and was playing, and the acquaintance thus formed was followed by their marriage. Later he was made chief.

Mausoleum for Sale.

Goshen, Ind., Nov. 14.—Mrs. A. A. Pugh and her infant son have arrived here from a visit to the woman's brother, James Herndon. It was the first time they had met in thirty years, during which neither knew the whereabouts of the other. John Herndon, of Atchison, Kan., also came into the reunion. He had been ignorant of his brother's whereabouts for several years. The meeting followed the publication in a newspaper of a communication from John Herndon. James Herndon saw it and after getting in touch with each other eventually found their sister.

CONGRESS MAY PLACE STAMP TAX ON CHECKS

Many Leaders Believe This Revenue Would Amount to $10,000,000. Proposal Would Be Fought.

The levy of a stamp tax on checks has been suggested to the administration as one measure that would raise considerable revenue for the Treasury. It has been estimated that a tax of 2 cents on checks would raise about $10,000,000 a year. Officials say that about 1,500,000 checks are written in the United States every day. And that persons who issue checks are, as a rule, well able to pay a small tax.

It is known that the proposal to levy a tax on checks has been brought to the attention of Secretary McAdoo. If the plan is adopted, the proposed tax will be made a part of the war revenue emergency act when that law is re-enacted at the coming session.

There will be opposition to such a tax. In fact, Democratic leaders, notably Representative Garner, of Texas, are favorable to the repeal of the provision of the emergency act levying a tax on various forms of commercial paper. This particular form of taxation is regarded as vexatious and harassing, and its re-enactment or enlargement by Congress this winter will be opposed by a number of leaders.

$555 in Stove; It Burns.

Sunbury, Pa., Nov. 14.—Putting her roll of $555 in bills in a parlor stove, Mrs. Frank Welchman, Sunbury, took a nap. Her mother, not knowing of the new "bank," built a fire, and all she recovered were the metal clasps of the pocketbook.

LIFE BELT SAVES AVIATOR.

Clifford Webster Lands Free First When Dumped Into Ocean.

Marblehead, Mass., Nov. 14.—One of the hydroplanes which are being experimented with here prior to delivery to the United States Navy Department, turned turtle fifty feet in the air over the Marblehead Neck today. The machine left the Burgess plant in charge of Clifford Webster, a veteran aviator, in a satisfactory flight one plane refused to work. Mr. Webster operated the new life-belt successfully, falling free from the burning machine and landing in the first life in the ocean, where he was quickly rescued. The new invention probably saved his life.

LOAFER WORKS IN JAIL.

Wouldn't Do So for Wife and Children.

San Francisco, Nov. 14.—Joseph Swanson, serving a term in the county jail for failure to provide for his children, has proved his ability to provide for them if he cared to try.

Woman, Asleep, Yawns; Jaw Is Dislocated.

Mrs. Mae Neumann, 22, of 3213 Volta place northwest, dislocated her jaw early yesterday when she yawned. Mrs. Neumann was sleeping when the accident occurred. She was treated at Georgetown University Hospital.

Physicians declared such a yawn need not necessarily be of considerable proportions, that the injury might have resulted from a lady-like and genteel gasp, even though during the unconsciousness of sleep.

"Last Minute Shopping News" in the Morning Papers Is Read at the Beginning of the Shopping Day.

"When the work of the day is over and one is fatigued with its activities and many have done their shopping, the evening paper is consulted almost solely for its news; thoughts of business or of shopping are laid aside and one thinks chiefly of rest and relaxation."

"The principal events of the morning are to eat one's breakfast and to read the morning paper. Both are equally essential. Then, one has no inclination to hunt up the discarded paper of the previous evening to obtain either its news or its advertisements; but to the morning paper, fresh from the press, he looks confidently not only for the latest news, but for the latest announcements of the merchants. The morning paper is before one at the beginning of the day when one is fresh and alert, and his thoughts are of the business of the day that is before him—at a time when he naturally thinks of the family's needs and necessary purchases. To the morning reader, or prospective shopper, the evening paper is a thing of yesterday both as to its news and its advertisements. The advertisements in the morning paper are depended upon by the discriminating shopper as the last word, the most recent offerings, of the merchants."

LONDON'S STORY CALLED TREASON

Capt. Finke Commends Ruling Barring "A Good Soldier" from the Mails.

PROTESTS AGAINST IT

Writer Capitalized Red Blood and Primal Instincts But Calls Defendants "Worse Than Brutes."

Postmaster General Hurleston's order by which envelopes which bear Jack London's attack on soldiers were barred from the mails was warmly commended by Capt. William D. Finke, assistant of the Thirtieth Coast defense Command, N. G. N. Y., of Brooklyn, in a letter to the National Security League, of New York.

Mr. London, who, it will be remembered, capitalized red blood and primal instincts at about twenty-five cents a word—wrote an article called "A Good Soldier" in which he declared a soldier to be the lowest being in existence. One paragraph said:

"A good soldier is a blind, heartless, murderous machine. He is not a man. He is not even a brute, for brutes only kill in self-defense. No man can fall lower than a soldier—it is a depth beneath which we cannot go."

Capt. Finke Charges Treason.

Capt. Finke, a member of the National Guard for many years, said:

"If this does not constitute treason, then I do not know the meaning of that word. It would be hard enough if these were being distributed by hand personally, but when the machinery of the government is being used for its destruction in an endeavor to hinder the defense of the building up and maintaining of a defense for that very government, it would appear to be not only treason, but treason compounded."

"I am submitting this protest as a citizen, who believes it is a citizen's duty to take prompt and vigorous action against that which he considers to be not for the best interests of his country."

The article by Mr. London was circulated by means of envelopes, on which the article was printed in red ink. It was distributed by a Kansas printer, and was offered for sale.

TWELVE-HIKERS BRAVE RAIN IN 5-MILE WALK

One Party of Wanderlusts Visits Cabin John and Another Goes to Harpers Ferry.

Twelve Wanderlusts braved the drizzling rain of yesterday afternoon and hiked five miles from Cabin John to Chain bridge. The hike was led by James P. Greene and was begun from the cabin at 3 o'clock. The hikers followed the Conduit road and Chesapeake and Ohio Canal tow path to the bridge, returning to Washington by rail.

Another band of hikers, led by G. A. Gane, and described as "unofficial" by the "regulars" of the Wanderlusts' organization, made a trip to Harpers Ferry, out of which town they hiked. There were about forty in the party which went to the town.

The Wanderlusts will take a moonlight hike Wednesday night from Dupont Circle to the Naval Observatory, a trip of some three miles. The hike will be led by John W. Johnson. Johnson will command the hikers next Sunday, the course being laid out in the Patterson estate. The pedestrians will start from Dupont Circle and Florida avenue northeast at 3 o'clock.

SERBIAN ARCHIVES FOUND.

Papers Barred at Nish Said to Reveal Intrigues with Allies.

Berlin via Ticker, Nov. 14.—The private archives of King Peter, as well as the archives of the Serbian foreign office and of Belgrade University were hurried before the evacuation of Nish by the Serbians.

Dispatches from Sofia state that the hiding place of these documents has been revealed to the Bulgarians by Serbians remaining in Nish.

Documents already found reveal numerous intrigues between Serbia and the entente powers. Others show that Russian diplomats were in the city when the evacuation of Nish was in progress.

MONEY FOR HER IN HOGS.

Washington Woman Has Winner of Prize Porkers.

Valley Ford, Wash., Nov. 14.—The last business one might expect to find a woman engaged in is the hog raising sort, but Mrs. E. A. Niseware has proved on her farm here that the Northwest can produce hogs. This summer she raised a hog weighing 350 pounds at seven months old. Spokane Kid is the unopposed name of the Berkshire.

TURKEYS FOR SOLDIERS.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 14.—The army transport Dix will carry to the American forces in the Philippines, for the approaching festive season, thousands of frozen turkeys, barrels of apple cider and cranberries and crates of celery, cabbage, canned goods, and fruit to make up with the frozen turkeys and Christmas dinners for the soldiers and assistants in the far away islands of the seas.

The big steamship is already groaning with the great load of cargo that has come from nearly every State in the Union, directly or indirectly, and in addition will carry a deck load of about 500 Missouri mules raised in Oregon. The kicking, rearing animals are now in a stout corral at Fort Lawton, and will not be loaded on board until the forenoon before casting off the moorings.

HOME CLUB MAY ERECT BUILDING

Present Four-story House Is Far Too Small for Organization's Needs.

CROWDS ATTEND AFFAIRS

Small Living Suites for Members May Prove Means of Escaping Unusually Heavy Fees.

Officials of the Home Club of the Interior Department are considering a plan to build a commodious clubhouse to meet the rapidly growing needs of the organization.

When the club was launched by Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, about two years ago it was thought that the large, four-story building at 14 Jackson place would answer all the needs of the club for years to come. Time has proved the fallacy of this theory, however, for the club has grown so fast and proved so popular that of late it has become a serious problem to comfortably handle the crowds which attend the musicals, dances, and other entertainments held several times each week.

The proposed plans for a new building embody a structure in a convenient location with a possible frontage on two or three streets.

To Include Many Features.

A gymnasium, swimming pool, bowling alley, an auditorium for lectures and concerts, a ballroom for dances and other entertainments, rooms for educational classes, reading, card playing, billiards, smoking, lounging, reception, and a restaurant and a solarium are features of the proposed clubhouse.

How to finance such an improvement without levying dues equal to those charged by wealthy, well-known clubs might be considered out of the question were it not that the possibility of making an income-paying building by the building by adding floors for living accommodations for members suggests a solution for the problem.

The Y. M. C. A. in Washington derives a considerable amount by supplying rooms for its members, several of the upper floors of the club building being used for living purposes. The furnished rooms, however, is not as attractive and homelike as the small apartment and it is suggested that moderately priced small suites, affording congenial companionship, would prove a popular renting inducement to single members.

U. S. PROTEST DEPENDS ON REPORT OF CONSUL

Agent at Progress Ordered to Send Full Facts Concerning Overhauling of Zealandia.

Whether the United States will protest to Great Britain on the searching of the American steamer Zealandia by a crew from a British warship will depend upon the report of Consul J. W. Gernon, at Progress, Tugatan, State Department last night ordered Gernon to learn definitely whether the Zealandia was overhauled within or outside of the three-mile limit of Progress harbor.

If the consul's report says that the search took place within the three-mile limit, State Department officials indicated that a vigorous protest will be made to Great Britain at once. It was considered likely that an apology will be demanded, with a pledge that the offense will not be repeated. Officials declared that overhauling an American vessel within Mexican territory constituted a flagrant violation of the neutrality law.

The British commander informed the British Embassy here that the search took place in the open sea. The embassy communicated the information to the State Department. Yesterday the State Department received copies of the Zealandia captain's affidavit, sent to the owners of the vessel in New York, which declared that the ship was overhauled while in Progress harbor.

CHURCH'S AIM TO TEACH OF CHRIST

Congregationalists Told All Societies Should Center Work on This Idea.

RITUAL DOESN'T SAVE

Dr. Woodrow, Former Pastor, Preaches Final Sermon in Anniversary of Local Organization.

Services in connection with the four-day celebration of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the First Congregational Church came to a close last night with a sermon by Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow, of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, of St. Louis, a former pastor.

Dr. Woodrow took his text from St. John, 17:13 and his theme was "The Supreme Aim of the Church."

After expressing the pleasure at having been selected to preach at the final service in connection with the celebration and stating that he felt at home in the pulpit where he had so often preached before, Dr. Woodrow said:

"Before machinery is installed in a factory men plan the factory for a definite purpose and every bit of machinery which is played in the building is put there with a definite aim. It should be the same in the church, where we have societies for this and for that; every one should be considered in its relation to the furtherance of the great aim of the church."

Christ's Teaching Church's Aim.

"The aim of the church is not ceremony, ritual or argument, but to spread the light of Jesus Christ to all the world. Dr. Woodrow said that the man who gets busy and tries to save some one else demonstrates the worth of his own soul. In speaking of the Old Testament, he said that some persons had expressed the wish that it had been lost about the time of the flood, but added that it was in the Old Testament that we are given the conception of God as Creator, as Lord of All, and as a Supreme Being holding the waters of the oceans in His hand. The New Testament, he said, is the supplement to the Old.

"We are saved not by believing the Bible," said Dr. Woodrow, "but by believing what the Bible reveals. There are three things a Christian should have: knowledge of God, love of Jesus Christ, and the desire to be of service to humanity."

Anniversary services of the Sunday school were held yesterday morning, in charge of Carlisle R. Ball, superintendent. The sermon at the morning service was preached by Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of the Christian Union Congregational Church, of Upper Meriden, N. J.

At 2:30 o'clock a communion service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Stephen M. Newman, a former pastor of the church. He is now president of Howard University.
